

Baylor School Kadrie Award

Jacqueline Adams '06

“The freshman me would never have imagined,” said Jacqueline Adams about winning a Best Delegate award at Harvard Model Congress in San Francisco as a junior. Jacqueline, whose Model Congress/Model UN involvement inspired her to form strong opinions on world matters, would likely surprise her freshman self in a number of ways.

Jacqueline had never hiked or backpacked until she was selected for Baylor’s annual Joe Key trip. Nonetheless she kept up with the Walk-about regulars and eventually became an instructor for the freshman trip. She discovered a love for community service and was active with most aspects of the program — from tutoring to grant writing. The combination of what Jacqueline saw during a spring break service trip to Jamaica and her interest in international affairs is now shaping her future plans.
